Study at VHL: Master of Management of Development; Rural Development and Gender

Graduated: 2009

Current job:

As a District Livestock Production Officer I am in charge of livestock production activities in the Kirinyaga district.

My job consists of the coordination of livestock activities which include:

- management of ministry resources including staff,
- planning, implementation and monitoring of livestock and related activities.

Relation to study at VHL:

I am in charge of resources including the staff who interact with farmers as they advise them on livestock husbandry related issues. The majority of the staff doesn't have adequate knowledge on gender. I will strive to improve the staff's knowledge on gender issues related to rural livelihood improvement, so that they can interact/advise the farmers in a gender sensitive manner.
